Pressurized Co2 plumbing line "blow-out" disclosure

In the event that a pool or spa plumbing line becomes clogged with debris such as leaves, hair, pool toys, etc, the plumbing lines can be unclogged in most cases by using a pressurized Co2 gun which is designed to shoot up to 900 psi of carbon dioxide through the effected/clogged plumbing lines.

However there is a risk that the plumbing could be damaged due to extreme blockages, old deteriorated plumbing lines, weak glue joints, or existing cracks and/or imperfections in the pipes and fittings themselves. The likeliness of damage is usually small since the blockages usually are cleared before tremendous pressure can build up in the pressurized line.

Even though our repair technicians are trained and experienced, A Accurate Pool and Spa Services, Inc cannot be held responsible for these circumstances and instances of possible damage if they happen to occur and cause damage to any plumbing and/or plumbing fittings, joints, or equipment.

By signing this waiver you agree that you have read and understand the risks involved in this procedure, and agree not to hold A Accurate Pool and Spa Services, Inc and its employees/technicians responsible for any said damage from this procedure.

Note: If your pool/spa has chronic problems with clogged plumbing lines, please call our office for options on optional equipment or information on what to do to limit and/or reduce these instances of blockages.
